VERBAL DESCRIPTION:

Solid, mold made fig frag of a face and squared off headdress. The back is flat & smooth. The headdress has a thin primary band, topped by a band with alternating thin horizontal & thin vertical bars - it has a rough, woven pattern - this is followed by another thin, plain, raised band, which is capped by a coronet of sorts - it's a semi-circular band with vertical incisions (the incisions are deep & triangular in cross-section). The top is very flat. The headdress is unusual in that it sits on top of the head rather than surrounding it. There is a small strap dangling from the right side. There are ears & punctated, puffy claustral earflares. The eyes are slanted slits - ~~two~~ pupils - The nose is broken off and the mouth is a rounded slit with a jutting chin. No hair, big cov. clay. Paint or slip
